1847 History of Mishicot 1947

According to the Atlas of Manitowoc county published in 1878, the town of Mishicot was settled by a pioneer named Daniel Smith. He settled on Section 5 during the year of 1844. Mr. Smith was largely responsible for the prosperity of the town by erecting a sawmill. This building is still standing and is operated as a feed mill. Mr. Smith started the school which was private and taught by Harriet Higgins. The first public school was organized in 1849 with George Peterson as teacher. H. Cogswell was the first white child born in this town; this was in 1846. In 1847 occurred the first death, that of Mr. Collins. The first marriage was that of Nathan Daniels to Miss Seas, in 1851. This town was separated from town of Two Rivers in November, 1852.

The settlers became conscious of a democratic form of government and held their first election on April 5, 1853. Albert Borcherdt was elected first chairman and Lorenz Peterson, clerk. During the years that followed, the village and surrounding territory attracted many pioneer settlers, farmers, business men and prospectors. The village grew prosperous and carried on a large trade with the farmers in the vicinity. The business life of the village was attributed to: two general stores, one hardware and tinware store, three hotels, several blacksmith and wagon shops, harness and boot and shoe shops, a grist mill and a saw mill, and also a brewery. The first grist and saw mill was built one

It was also noted that the wages paid laborers in the pioneer days ranged from five cents (5c) an hour to forty cents (40c) an hour for a ten hour day and six days to the week. The average weekly wages netted a worker from $3 per week to $24 per week.

Although Mishicot was considered a thriving village in the 19th century, it has progressed much since that time. It now has new and modern grocery and merchantile establishments, Catholic, Methodist, and Lutheran churches, a postoffice, a four-year course high school, a town hall, a graded school, a parochial school, a fire department, hardware and electrical appliance stores, beauty parlor and barber shop, modern bowling alleys, a jewelry store, modern garages and farm implement stores, butcher shops, furniture stores and undertaking parlors, modern dairies and a whey condensing plant, a bank, dentist and physician services, a shoe repair shop, a blacksmith, fur farms, tree nurseries, a modern building housing much of the county highway equipment which serves the northern part of the county, seven tavern, a grist and feed mill, and modern cold storage and food locker service.

Mishicot is located on highway 147. Today modern bus and trucking service links it with Green Bay, Two Rivers, Sheboygan, and Milwaukee. Mishicot village in the early days was often considered on a proposed interurban rail extension until the inroads of motor bus and trucking competition did away with dreams of rail extensions through the northeastern part of the county.

The residents of Mishicot and vicinity are a happy and congenial people always lending an ear toward any progressive movement which arises. They are also fond of their social life which includes church societies, bridge and sewing clubs, bowling leagues, and baseball and basketball teams. The high school furnishes much entertainment with its band concerts, dramatic productions, athletic games, and the annual prom. The village is widely known for its wedding dances which occur weekly at the Opera House.

New organizations which have arisen lately are: Lions club, a local V. F. W. post, a Flying club, Sportsman club, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H clubs, and Farm Bureaus.

Mishicot, a thriving community with a remembered past and a community with an encouraging and prosperous future, is living to uphold our wonderful American ideals of democracy and freedom.

Historical Facts and Data

The town of Mishicot was separated from the town of Two Rivers, November 15, 1852, and at that time included what is now the town of Gibson which was detached from Mishicot, November 9, 1858. The town was named after the Indian Chief Mishicott, (meaning hairy legs) who was the grandfather of Benjamin Y. Mexico's mother, an Ottowa, and whose rule and territory extended over the Twin river area.

Old Chief Mishicott, an Ottowa, was the most noted of the Indians of this vicinity. The village of Chief Mishicott settled on the East "Twin" river. The name "Twin" was probably given to the two rivers because the Chippewa Indian's name of two rivers is Neshto meaning "twins." Likewise we have our East and West Twin rivers.

In 1853 the town changed its name to Saxonburgh because of the large number (15 families) of Saxons settling here. In 1854 the original name of Mishicot was restored to the town again by its residents.

In 1852 the Mishicot-Two Rivers Plankroad company with a capitol stock of $10,000 was incorporated. The promoters were Chauncey Gilbert, W. Boot, A. Smith, D. Smith, L. S. House, and R. Klingholz.

The first postoffice was established in Mishicot in 1854 with F. M. Falrich as postmaster.

In 1866, the Holy Cross church was founded. It was then a satellite of St. Luke's parish of Two Rivers. It withdrew from there in 1898 with Rev. A. Bastian and Rev. P.

The plans for building the brewery were drawn in 1866.

In 1861, when Civil War was eminent, three young Mishicot men, LaFayette Smith, James W. Langworthy, and Horace Price, went to Milwaukee and joined the First Regiment of the Army. They were the first from the county to enlist and see active service.

The Mishicot Schuetzen Verein, an athletic shooting organization, was formed in 1869, with Louis Koehnke, H. Beyer, J. Lindsteadt, S. C. Silk, P. Rau, W. Tish, and F. Halberg as promoters.

In August 1901, the first county picnic of the Modern Woodsmen was held in Mishicot.

In September 1920, the Kornely triplets, John, James, and Jeanette were born.

The addition of an auditorium and three large classrooms was made to the graded school in 1920. This building now serves the community as its high school. The original building was erected in 1905.

In 1942 the Mishicot dam crumbled due to high flood waters and undermining by turtles.

In 1943, the Mishicot brewery was sold to be converted into a modern whey powder plant.

In November, 1945, the Van Ells triplets, Joseph, James, and John were born.

In 1927, concreting of highway 147, which linked Mishicot with Two Rivers, was completed.

An early pioneer of great importance was Judge Isaac Craite. During Judge Craite's career, the village of Mishicot attained county-wide prominence through the so-called "Mishicot code of justice." Judge Craite, the first municipal judge of this county, was a justice of peace at Mishicot and in those days all cases originated in justice courts. The rulings of Judge Craite brought Mishicot to the forefront in those early years.
